Who Holds the Key to Willingness?

The Control Rooms in My Brainbox

There are many proven, practical suggestions in Alcoholics Anonymous literature that, if followed, would lead to a life of serenity and peace of mind. We hear these suggestions every day in the AA meetings that we attend, and it seems that we all place different degrees of importance on them. This might simply be based on how desperate we were when we entered the program.

Desperation was the main motivation that brought many of us to Alcoholics Anonymous in the first place. Unfortunately, some members get to a certain comfort level and then settle into a pattern of just attending meetings, falling into that “Half Measures” rut. This is a routine of complacency that can go on indefinitely, but that is their choice.

On page 35 in the Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions (12 & 12) it states that willingness is the necessary key. But when I was in my early days of sobriety, I resisted looking deeper into those embarrassing behaviors of the past and the present. That slowed down the pace of my recovery—but, thank God, it did not bring it to a complete stop.

Then, I learned that I was not the one making decisions about my willingness, for another power was hijacking that function of my brain box. I recognized and decided that, until I got my ego under control, I was going to be one of those unfortunate souls who falls into that complacency mode.

I had to come to terms with something that never occurred to me on my drinking days: Most of my errant behavior was the result of an ego-driven mindset. My ego did not want me to be willing to do any of the altruistic principles the AA program encourages, and for the most part, it selfishly ran the show.

I seem to approach the ego-deflation problem by imagining it as a separate control room in my brain, so to speak, right next to another control room labeled “Conscience.”

My Conscience says, “Make your bed.” And my ego says, “Don’t be a Wimp.” Next, I make my bed. The more I do what my Conscience suggests, the more I render my ego irrelevant.

All of my ego-driven actions were of a selfish nature, and all my Conscience-driven actions are unselfish in Spirit. If I had not given due diligence to all of the twelve steps—and, instead, had let my ego talk me out of it—I would, most likely, not have gotten to this level of understanding.

I had to start with simple suggestions such as these: “Nothing pays off like restraint of tongue and pen.” (12 & 12 p. 91). And, “we had to drop the word ‘blame’ from our speech and thought.” (12 & 12 p. 47).

Now, I find it rewarding to be willing to brew and serve coffee at AA meetings, pass out the Big Books at 12-Step study meetings, take out the trash bags, etc. I can also smile, open a door for someone, let another driver in on the highway and help with an occasional hand out to the less fortunate.

Some may misunderstand my motives for why I do these simple little gestures, but I never let myself be deterred by that. If I did, I would be letting my ego get another foothold, and I am just not going to let that happen here. I am simply dropping the dead weight from my Conscience.

Today, I do not have to think about doing these deeds, as they have become second nature and part of who I am. When I do these things without fanfare, I get a warm feeling in my heart that replaces those old neglectful, negative emotions of the past. No Half Measures or complacency, here. My Conscience is my guide. Night-night ego. It is time to take your nap now.

THE HIGH VALUE OF LIVING

Ed B, Reprinted from September 1970 IGNews

There is no doubt that no subject is more discussed today than the high cost of living and the hardship it is creating. But we don't hear much said about the high value of living which is more important than the cost of living. Of course, when we go into a market to buy the necessities of life, we must have a sense of values to get our money's worth. No man wants to be cheated, but some people are cheating themselves and don't know it.

Some men and women spend most of their lives in the pursuit of material things and not enough time in the pursuit of higher moral and spiritual values. We cannot completely separate the two because material values are a part of human values, but we have to give one or the other the priority. It is this covetousness for the material wealth that makes men neglect all true values. If men would put human values above material values, there would be no wars. We all would be safe in our own homes and on the streets after dark. There would be no religious or racial discrimination and no poverty in this world.

Now, this brings us to the question. Are we all getting our money's worth out of AA? The truth is that there are many men and women in AA who are cheating themselves. They got sobriety, but they are not getting any of the fringe benefits that come with sobriety because they are spending all their time shopping for short-term pleasures instead of long-term peace. It is not because that they don't know about the additional benefits that come with sobriety. They see their AA friends walk off with a song of triumph, a smile of hope and a laugh of joy, and they watch with envy as their friends climb higher to get a better view of life and its potentials. Why the difference? It cannot be in mental capacity, since whatever difference may exist in mental power, is not matched by the difference in performance.

We must sow a thought before we can reap an act. We must sow an act to reap a habit, sow a habit to reap a character and sow a character to reap a destiny. The art of living begins with a thought and followed up with action. The real gifts of AA cannot be gotten by members who are wrapped up in material values. There are many men and women in AA who are cheating themselves by living in a make-believe world of pleasant illusion and call it happiness.

Today we are living in an age which has exalted material things. The clever brains of brilliant men are being used to secure scientific triumphs. This century has seen an advance along the scientific lines that is simply stupendous. The output of goods has been multiplied a thousand-fold. Measured in bulk and quantity, this is the richest age that this country has ever known. Yet all is not well. Along with the material wealth, there is spiritual and moral poverty, because man has put material values above human values.

It is good to have a sense of values when we go shopping for material. It is still better to have a sense of values and spend some time shopping for the things that will give meaning to life. Of what use is it to accumulate large possessions unless we learn to use them for human well-being. Man cannot live by bread alone, is as true today as it was centuries ago. ❖

“ We must sow a thought before we can reap an act. We must sow an act to reap a habit, sow a habit to reap a character and sow a character to reap a destiny. ”

It may seem incredible that these men are to become happy, respected, and useful once more. How can they rise out of such misery, bad repute and hope- lessness? The practical answer is that since these things have happened among us, they can happen with you.

Night-Watch: 2 People in attendance. Sent Central office Feb phone #'s for telephone system. There were 4 missed/Dropped calls in the first week of Feb. David called the # and it took over 3 minutes for the call to be answered. Root cause of this is the first two individuals on the phone list did not answer their phone. We are working to move the those #'s off the list. However, during the 3 minutes of wait time there was dead air. Looking into options to eliminate the dead air problem.

March phone list has been filled. We will send out closer to March. Looking to do more Night watch presentations for Group commitments with telephone system. There Tradition Three: The only requirement for AA membership is a desire to stop drinking.

- In my mind, do I prejudge some new AA members as losers?
- Is there some kind of alcoholic whom I privately do not want in my AA group?
- Do I set myself up as a judge of whether a newcomer is sincere or phony?
- Do I let language, religion (or lack of it), race, education, age, or other such things interfere with my carrying the message?
- Am I over impressed by a celebrity? By a doctor, a clergyman, and ex-convict? Or can I just treat this new member simply and naturally as one more sick human, like the rest of us?
- When someone turns up at AA needing information or help (even if he can't ask for it aloud), does it really matter to me what he does for a living? Where he lives? What his domestic arrangements are? Whether he had been to AA before? What his other problems are?

Focus on the program, not the problem.

Intergroup wants to express our appreciation for those groups and individuals who have made generous financial contributions, and give a special thank you to all the members who have volunteered their time this year to help the sick and suffering alcoholic.

Concept III: To insure effective leadership, we should endow each element of A.A. —the Conference, the General Service Board and its service corporations, staffs, committees, and executives—with a traditional “Right of Decision.”

- Do we understand what is meant by the “Right of Decision”?
- Do we grant it at all levels of service or do we “instruct”?
- Do we trust our trusted servants ?
